❖ REGIONAL COUNCIL ELECTION

Every duly registered political party has the right to nominate a candidate to contest in order to be elected as a councilor for the constituency in which he/she resides. Individuals have also the right to contest as independent candidates and be elected as a councilor for their constituency.

❖ LOCAL AUTHORITY ELECTION

Voting During Local Authority And Regional

Council Elections

For the Regional Councils and Local Authorities' elections, you must be in your constituency or local authority area where you were registered as a voter in order to vote.

Namibian electoral systems

An electoral system covers the legal and practical realities of voter registration and election administration, as well as the precise rules and the method used to translate votes for candidates and/or parties in an election into an allocation of seats.

- ❖ The majoritarian or first-past-the-post electoral system is used during the regional councils' election. This system dictates that the candidate with the most votes wins the seat.
- ❖ The proportional representation electoral system is used for elections for members of the local authorities. In this system every political party/association/organisation intending to contest provides a list of its nominated candidates. Seats are allocated according to the number of votes received.

Registration Of Voters

Registration of voters in Namibia is a voluntary exercise and is a process by which Namibian citizens of voting age register to have his/her name included in the voters' register during the determined period of registration to participate in the elections.
